

GRADUATE STUDY SKILLS PROGRAMME 2019-20

There is a study skills programme provided for graduate students, which it is hoped will assist students in transitioning to graduate work and enable them to get the most out of their time in Oxford.

Freshers' Week Introductory Session, 'Transition to Graduate Work'

Wed. 9 Oct. (0th week), 17.00 – 18.00, Amanda Foreman Room.

The Session in Freshers' Week will provide an introduction to the programme, discussing such things as dealing with the pressure of work in Oxford, and the availability of help (whether at the IT learning centre, or from libraries). Further, the importance of time management, writing effectively, and getting through the mass of material which will be expected of you in Oxford through developing good reading skills: topics to be explored in detail in later sessions.

Michaelmas Term

'Effective Reading': Wed. 23 Oct. (2nd week), 12.00 – 13.00, Lodge Seminar Room

'Essay Writing': Wed. 6 Nov. (4th week), 12.00 – 13.00, Lodge Seminar Room

'Time Management': Wed. 20 Nov. (6th week), 12.00 – 13.00, Lodge Seminar Room

Hilary Term, repeated in Trinity Term

'Writing a Dissertation'

'Taking Examinations'

The sessions are taken by Prof. Daphne Hampson, an Associate of the SCR at LMH who has had many years' experience in teaching study skills.